

BUSINESS TECHNOLOGY

DAILY NEWS PHOTOS BY ED HOPFMANN

Joe Moir, CEO of Clean Out Your Office LLC, stands next to some of the computer monitors the company has removed from offices. Below, Frank Santos, an employee at Clean Out Your Office, drills holes in a disc drive.

At your disposal

Waltham company removes e-waste from offices

SMALL BUSINESS

Work in Progress:

By Bob Tremblay
DAILY NEWS STAFF

Offices have a habit of becoming unintentional storage facilities for all manner of items. These include pieces of electronic equipment that's either outdated or defective.

In many instances, this equipment has taken up a permanent residence in closets, under desks and in hallways where its principal function has become collecting dust.

Companies don't remove this equipment for a variety of reasons. For example, they don't want to spend the money to get rid of it. They don't want to deal with the hassle of disposing it. They think it might be of some value. They're afraid the information on it could get in the wrong hands. Or they simply don't know who to call.

Companies now have someone to call, and it's not Ghostbusters. It's Clean Out Your Office LLC. The Waltham-based company specializes in the removal and disposal of retired, CLEAN, Page E2

PROFILE

CLEAN OUT YOUR OFFICE LLC

CEO: Joe Moir

Employees: Seven

Industry: Electronic equipment disposal

Company background:

Located in Waltham, Clean Out Your Office LLC specializes in the removal and disposal of retired, replaced or defective equipment such as computers, monitors, printers, phone systems, fax machines and copiers. Its Web address is www.cleanoutyouroffice.com.

